MEET THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Morris Canal/Lafayette

You are known by the company you keep, so meet the neighbors!

MORRIS CANAL/LAFAYETTE

Morris Canal, commonly known by its older neighborhood name, Lafayette, is well situated south and west of Downtown Jersey City and just east of Bergen Hill and Jackson Hill. Historically, shipping and railroads were major industries in Old Lafayette, but what does remain from the 19th and 20th centuries is stunning historical architecture. The immediate neighborhood around the Lofts at 451 Communipaw is a wonderful example of the old industrial properties that have become a hallmark of the communities architecture.

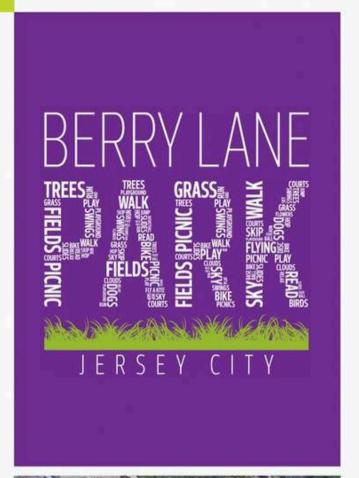

Now emerging as one of Jersey City's "next" neighborhoods, Morris Canal/Lafayette emergence as Downtowns hip sister, has been a labor of love forged by many of the communities longtime residents. That is not to say, the new residents haven't played an important role in the renaissance of Old Lafayette. It's clear industrial past, mixed with local history and a creative community has placed this community on the forefront of Jersey City's hippest neighborhoods. With a great mix of restaurants, bars, parks, and proximity to New York City, the neighborhood is experiencing a wave of new residential construction, including contempary developments like 100 Monitor Street, Solaris Lofts and the Baker Building, to mention just a few of the projects paving the way for Morris Canal.

City, the Hudson Waterfront has grown over the last 20 years into New Jersey's largest submarket and the state's most important growth corridor. Since the first Class A office building opened for business in the 1980s, the Hudson Waterfront office market has experienced stunning growth, adding more Class
A office inventory than any market along the East Coast, with the exception of New York City.

The Hudson Waterfront office market is larger than most of the regional CBD markets, including White Plains, Stamford, Brooklyn and Long Island City. Moreover, this explosive growth has led to explosive residential growth in the downtown neighborhoods and the city in general.

JERSEY CITY, AN AMERICAN SUCCESS STORY

It's difficult to find a comeback story as compelling as the one Jersey City is presently writing. Long considered a "Gritty City" whose best days were behind it, Jersey City started the process of rebuilding and redefining itself in the 1970s. The rediscovery of brownstone living and the embracing of the redevelopment process refined the city into a force for community renewal. The Jersey City story has been one of preserving the past while planning and building the future.

With this two-prong approach, the city has experienced the development of thousands of new residential units over the past two decades and created an important tristate economic growth corridor.

With dozens of major development projects either under construction or slated to soon begin, Jersey City is experiencing record growth. The city currently has over 6,800 residential units under construction and an additional 18,000 approved. These development projects range from soaring new towers, like the Columbus Towers and URBY building that are changing the city's skyline, to the revitalization and redevelopment of old buildings like Telco Lofts and Mill Creek's Modera Lofts into luxury residential and mixed-use communities.

Jersey City has transformed into a much coveted "18-hour city," where walk-to-work housing is becoming increasingly common, and shops, restaurants, and entertainment venues are staying open later into the night, helping the city become a magnet for millennials and a large creative population. Jersey City has for years invested in downtown housing and neighborhoods, adding thousands of units, putting the city in a strong position to attract millennials and
